

Free Day of Yoga 2008

Monday, September 1st, Labor Day

Would you like to offer a class or two on the Houston Free Day of Yoga? This is a way the Houston Yoga Teachers gift the community by introducing more people to yoga. It's also a great way to showcase your studio or teaching style. If you would like to offer a free class, please complete one form for each class you plan to offer and return these to us no later than July 14th so we can market the event. We will send announcements to newspapers, magazines, radio and television stations. But, of course, it helps if you can announce the Free Day to your friends and students.

For those of you who want to teach, but do not have a place to offer your class, we are coordinating with different studios around town to offer free space. Be sure to mark the form below, indicating that you need a space and we'll be back in touch with you.

We are thankful to have your participation!
